Colonial Americans wished each other a merry Christmas in person, presenting a calling card at the door.

Many adorned the card with ribbon, holiday scenes, and Yuletide messages. The first commercial Christmas cards did not appear until 1846.

Solid-state circuitry delivers more power and speed than other home arcades. The Console Atari's new video game console is the most powerful yet. It's the only one that can play all the games you can find in the arcade. And it's the only one that can play all the games you can find in the home.

The Controllers

Atari's new video game console is the most powerful yet. It's the only one that can play all the games you can find in the arcade. And it's the only one that can play all the games you can find in the home.

New at Sears!

Command Control Deluxe Joystick

The first adjustable joystick

It's the Atari SuperSystem that lets you play the most popular video games. After you play the SuperSystem, you'll realize how different it is from the power of a home computer generating arcade-quality images, sounds, and action. It's bound to have a smoother feel. Just touch your controller and your move is carried out almost instantly. Plus there are luxury features you won't find elsewhere. Like the unique TV switch that changes to normal TV programming automatically when the console is turned off—no more reaching behind your set. Or leave the console on during your favorite TV show to retain the high scores. When you side-cartridge in or out, the replacement there's silence and the screen goes black, no irritating rapping or clack. Storage is even made easier. Controllers fit neatly under cover at rear; cord wraps around base. One-design controllers have twin fire buttons for left and right-handed players.

Extra... the SuperSystem has a few more.

Smooth-rolling table-top Trak-Ball (2) has a heavy base so it won't slip even during a real workout. Command Control Deluxe Joystick (3) actually lets you customize its feel by adjusting the swing and speed. Plus the system includes a "the more the merrier" Centipede/Kangaroo/Gauntlet that play like their coin-arcade prototypes. It's the SuperSystem. And it lives up to its name.
